RUSSIAN SEA RAIDERS' WORK.

THREE TRANSPORTS SUNK, BRIT-ISH COAL SHIP CAPTURED.

Japan Calling for the Removal of Admiral Kamimura if He Falls to Catch the Vladivostok Fleet-Russian Report Says Time Was Given for All to heave the Ships Before Fire Was Opened.

Special Cubie Despaiches to THE SUN. Tokio, June 19 .- The Japanese transpert Idzumi was sunk off Oshima, near Joushima Strait, on June 15. One hundred and eight of the passengers and crew took to small boats when the Russian warships were sighted. The Gromovoi signalled for them to approach and the boats complied. All were taken on board the cruisers. Many of them were sick soldiers.

The prisoners were lined up and compelled to witness the sinking of the Idzumi. Later they saw the destruction of the transport Hitachi.

They were then put in the hold until 3 e'clock in the afternoon of Thursday, when they were examined, and twenty-two noncombatants were put on board the Unko Maru, which brought them to Maizaru. The Russians proceeded in the direction of Hokkaido.

OTHER SHIPS SUNK.

Five hundred and nine survivors from the transports Sado and Hitachi have arrived at southern ports. The Russians allowed 610 non-combatants to leave the Sado. The fate of the officers and soldiers who remained aboard of her is unknown. They were prepared to commit suicide, but changed their minds when the Russians auddenly left.

Apparently non-combatants had small opportunity for leaving the Hitachi. The Russians fired shrapnel into her crowded

The Russians sank the sailing vessels Yawata and Ansei on Thursday between Oku and Kojima islands. Thirty-seven survivors arrived at Yesashi this afternoon.

The raid of the Vladivostok squadron is evidently over. The warships disappeared yesterday off Henashiskal, steering northward, and they have not been reported since. Whether a portion of Admiral Kamimura's fleet is awaiting them off Vladivostok is unknown to the Navy Department.

EAMIMURA CRITICISED.

Confirmation of the reports of the success of the Russian raid has brought an unwarranted amount of criticism upon Admiral Kamimura. His failure to intercept the Russians in the fog off Gensan when the transport Kinshiu Maru was mik is recalled. Some officials even declare that if he does not succeed in catching vostok he ought to resign or commit suicide. The public demand for his replacement is growing. The public fails to make allowances for the limitations and conditions. Admiral Kamimura's squadron was lying off Tsushima Island when the raiders reached Okenoshima. The Japanese immediately started in pursuit of them, but rain obscured the sea, and an electric storm | Electrician Took Hold of Live Wire With interfered with wireless telegraphy

SKRIPLOFF REPORTS THE SINKING. St. PETERSBURG, June 19.-Admiral Skrydloff, the naval commander-in-chief in the Far East, telegraphs:

"On June 15 our cruiser division en countered in the Strait of Corea a Japanese transport steaming from the south in the direction of the Japanese coast, which was visible on the horizon. The vessel proved to be the transport Idzumi, with troops on board. Upon the expiration of the period given to those on board to lower their boats and leave the ship, of which part of the crew took advantage, the transport was sunk by our guns.

"Shortly afterward to the southeast two more transports, the Hitachi and Sado, were seen, one with troops and the other with coolies, horses and railway plant, besides their crews. The transports refused to surrender, and at the end of the period granted to those on board to take to their boats the vessels were sunk by torpedoes

"The losses by the sinking of the transports, the tonnage of which aggregated about 15,000, consisted of a portion of the troops and crews, and a large quantity of war material and railway plant.

CANADA NOT READY FOR DEFENCE

Lord Dundonald, Dismissed, Gives Warning

TORONTO, Ont., June 19 .- Lord Dundonald, in a reply to the Canadian Government and criticising their action in dismissing him from the place of commanding officer of the Canadian militia and regular forces, utters this warning to Canada: "It may be a matter of indifference to some whether the militia lacks guns, rifles, ammunition, equipment and all that i necessary to make a fighting force efficient. It may be a matter of indifference to some whether the great Northwest, with its splendid fighting material, be left in a defenceless state and without a gun, with patriotic offers to organize urgently needed corps ignored.

"Above all, it may be a matter of indifference to some whether other considerations besides military considerations influence the choice and advancement of the military leaders of the people.

"But I am now free to speak more openly on matters I have often referred to in public. I desire here emphatically to warn the people of Canada that though they may be indebted for the integrity of their territory and, indeed, their national existence to the forbearance of others, they are, as regards their preparation for war and their state of readiness to successfully resist aggression, living in a fool's paradise.

He is also quoted as saying that the militia has been deliberately starved by the Government and the true state of affairs has been withheld from the people just as deliberately. If Prime Minister Laurier desired the treaty making power he should in common justice to the militia provide them with more than eleven pack saddles for carrying ammunition, which is all the present stock in the ordnance department of Canada.

SCIENTIFIC SUICIDE.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., June 19 .-- Charles Kailer, who graduated from Purdue University two weeks ago and who took employment immediately with the Northwestern Traction Company as electrician committed suicide this morning at the sub-station, four miles east of here. He stripped himself of his clothing, lay down on a cross-cut saw, wrapped one end of a feed wire about one wrist and then with a pair of pliers took hold of the live wire. Except for the perfect connections he made the current would not have been strong enough to kill him. It was several hours before his body was found Kailer came from Napierville, Ill., and was one of the most brilliant men in this year's graduating class at Purdue, being a member of the Tau Beta Pi honorary society. It is supposed that the strenuou work of the final examination, immediately followed by the solitude of his life at the sub-station, unbalanced his mind.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. LONDON, June 20 .- A despatch to the Daily Mail from Tangier says that the following letter has been received from the brigand Raisuli:

"It is well that Englishmen and Americans should know the truth about my dongs and my reasons for taking Mr. Perdicaris prisoner. All that is said in Tangier about me, that I hate Christian Europeans and want to drive them from Morocco, is "Such speaking is lies. Between Morocco and Europe, between Mussulman and Christ'an, there is nothing but peace. We desire no wrong to any Christian. Should trouble come it will be from Europe, for if

"Abdsadh and his people have for years persecuted with fire and sword my tribe, killed our young boys, mutilated our children, robbed us and disregarded all the principles of our religion.

For a long time I considered the advisability of raiding Tangier and retaliating on the Governor, but I saw difficulty owing to the presence of a large number of foreigners of all nations assembled at Tangier. Not wishing to offend the Powers, decided to go to Tangier and carry away a European [foreigner] of standing.

"When I went I had no intention of taking Mr. Perdicaris more than any other. I took an American for America forced the Sultan to overthrow the Governor and release from prison a large number of men innocently suffering.
"I expect the new Pasha to stand between me and the people. He must be a just man, for if there is no justice with the new Governor I warn the Government that there is danger of a renewal of the present trouble. I do not wish to see Morocco occupied by any nation or troops landed, because that would mean trouble

UPSET WHILE WRECK SEEING. Three in the Boat and None Could Swim but a Launch Saved Them.

Edward Richter of 406 East 119th street took his two sons to see the wreck of the General Slocum yesterday in a flat bottomed rowboat. The swell from the steamer Mount Morris overturned the boat.

None of the party could swim. The river was full of launches and rowpoats. Many of them made for the overturned boat. The first to get there was the Elsie, which took one of the boys aboard. Richter had taken a grip of his other son's neck and the men in the boat couldn't separate them. Finally Albert Kehrlbach of 585 East 119th street, one of the men in the launch struck Richter in the face. Then both he and his son were pulled into the boat. It took an ambulance surgeon from Lebanon Hospital nearly an hour to revive Richter.

OVERBOARD FROM WM. FLETCHER Swede in Fishing Party Drowned-Life Preservers, Witness Says, Sank.

Charles Erickson, a Swede, employed in a fishing party on the William Fletcher, went overboard last night when the boat was opposite Sea-bright on its way back from the fishing banks. On board the boat were about two hundred members of the Devan Fishing Club, composed of young men in the neighborhood of Eighth avenue and 125th street. The William Fletcher was stopped and a boat lowered. Just as the rescuers got near the Swede he sank. L. D. Martens, chief of the underground system of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, who was out in his yacht Surprise and tried to pick up Erickson, was quoted by his nephew Eugene Doane last night as having said to him:

"It took the William Fletcher twenty minutes to launch her lifeboat and after it was in the water it had no oarlocks. Several of the years men on the fishing boat eral of the young men on the fishing boat threw life preservers to the drowning man, but the life preservers sank."

CANNON WHACKS GOY. ODELL Didn't Intend to Go, but Heard From Some

NEW YORK, MONDAY, JUNE 20. 1904. -Copyright, 1904, by The Sun Printing and Publishing Association

Secretary Cortelyou of the Department of Commerce and Labor returned to Washington last night. He will leave there in time to get to Chicago on Wednesday. The Secretary, it seems, had no intention of attending the Republican national convention, believing that he had better remain at his desk and attend to the business of his Department. According to New York friends of his, however, Mr. Cortelyou received messages yesterday from several Republican war horses in Chicago to the effect that he'd better come on. Therefore, he decided to go.

"But he will not go," said an old Long Island friend of the Secretary, "as the representative of the Administration or of anybody but himself."

As soon as Mr. Cortelyou is elected chair man of the national committee he will resign from the Cabinet and Congressman Victor H. Metcalf of California will, it is understood, be the new Secretary of Commerce and Labor.

Mr. Cortelyou, it is stated, is of the belief that he can run the campaign satisfactorily and is looking forward to meeting some of the malcontents at Chicago and impressing them with that view.

SPEAKEASY IN A CAVE With Rugs and Carpets on the Floor-Light From Trolley Rail.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 19.-The Allegheny police discovered this afternoon one of the most gorgeously fitted up speakeasies ever found in western Pennsylvania. It was found under Troy Hill, in a cave 105 feet back from East street, where it had its entrance. The cave was lighted by electric lights and the floor was covered with fine rugs and brussels carpets. Handsome furniture was scattered about and there was a big ice box containing nearly one hundred quarts of beer. An electric light plant had been installed, but the police think the power to run the plant was taken from a rail of a trolley line that passes in the vicinity of the cave When the police made their unexpected call they found ten barrels of German wine, a couple of barrels of beer and a large quantity of whiskey. The proprietor Charles Harbin, and twenty-three visitors were found in the cave and taken to the police station.

HE WILL MAKE ME TAKE THE NOMINATION, WILL HE?

Uncle Joe Is All Riled Up ay the Governor-Chairman's Impudence-Why, He Was a Fat Boy Running Around in Knickerbackers When I First Went to Congress.

CHICAGO, June 19 .- "He says he is going to make me take it.does he?" queried Uncle Joe Cannon when it was reported to him that Gov. Odell proposed to nominate him for Vice-President whether he wanted it or not.

"That man Odell was a fat boy running around in knickerbockers when I first went to Congress. He was peddling ice after I had drawn cards in several national political games. I helped to make me President before he cast his virgin vote. "Do you think I am going to let him come out here and tell me how to run my present business? Sav. we have motormen on my street car system in Danville who hav more influence with me than the Governor of New York. "Say, when did a New York delegation ever have any influence in a Republican convention? New York would be against Roosevelt now if all the country was for him. Who in thunder cares what Benny Odell wants? He has about as much chance of making me the candidate for Vice-President as I have of making him King of England. "I have said a good many times that if the convention nominated me I would not take it. I can settle the matter in another way. I have strong friends in every delegation. These men will not let me get into an uncomfortable position.

"They know that I want to remain Speaker of the House if I can, and that I do not want to take the other place. These men will see to it that I do not get in trouble. "The President will not help them. Illi-neis has a good candidate for the Vice-Presidency and I think that is about enough to say about it. "Now, there is one thing more. I would rather be Speaker of the House than anything else in the gift of the American people excepting President of the United States. "There is no chance of my being Presi dent, but there is a fair chance of my keep ing my present job. Of course, I am no boasting. Illinois may go Prohibition and would lose my place, but I have a chance "This man Odell riles me with his impudence. I do not believe that he intends to do anything, but he is too previous. I want to say that Uncle Joe knows his business, and that there will be no Vice-President watchcharm hanging on to me

I guess that is straight and strong enough. THE PHIPPSES MAY AGREE.

Republicans Say Hitt Is Too Old and Too III.

THE INDIANA MAN AHEAD.

Little Doubt That He Will Accept Vice-Presidency.

The Opposition to Cortelyon as National Chairman Disappearing-Cornelius N. Bliss Arrives and Clears the Atmosphere of Dissensions-Gov. Odell's Booming of Cannon Resented by the Indiana Delegation-Cannon Issues a Statement Referring to His Positive Declination, and Saying That "It Was Correct Then and Is Correct Now."

CHICAGO, June 19 .- The vast majority of Republicans here do not hesitate to say that Mr. Hitt is too old a man to nominate for Vice-President. Mr. Hitt is 71, and while all the Republicans would like to honor him they do not believe it advisable to nominate one of his age who has been so ill of late. Republicans, in speaking of these matters, accept it as conclusive that President Roosevelt and his running mate are to be elected, and while all know President Roosevelt to be in robust health they nevertheless are convinced that life has its uncertainties, and that the President's running mate should not be a man of Mr. Hitt's age and physical ailments. Speaker Cannon is 68, Mr. Fairbanks is 52, or only six years older than the President, and Metcalf of California is 51. All of the indications point to the nomination of Fairbanks, and yet the President's friends continue to say: "If we can't get Cannon we ought to take Hitt."

This expression, however, merely represents a little feeling against Fairbanks on the part of the President's friends because Mr. Fairbanks will not make it known to President Roosevelt that he desires to be the candidate for Vice-President. The situation concerning Senator Fairbanks is peculiar in many respects. The President won't say that he wants him as a running mate and the hills and valleys of the United States are not echoing cries for Fairbanks. For that matter, neither is the State of Indiana. President Roosevelt is emulating the example set by President McKinley at Philadelphia four years ago, when Mr. McKinley, although desiring the nomination of either Elihu Root or Cornelius N. Bliss, informed Mr. Hanna that the Vice-Presidential nomination ought to be settled in the convention. Speaker Cannon was at the Great Northern Hotel to-night. He has been pestered all day and all the evening for a further on of his sentiments of the Vice-Presidential nomination. Cannon is too good a Republican to belittle the office of Vice-President, the second place in the gift of the nation, and he has remained quiet since the interviews he gave out in Washington immediately after he informed President Roosevelt that he did not want to be nominated, and that he would use every effort, reasonable and honorable, to prevent his nomination. Speaker Cannon has believed all along his present place. In view, however, of the attitude of Governor-Chairman Odell in unwarrantably using the name of Speaker Cannon (for Odell knows perfectly well Speaker Cannon's views on this highly important matter) the Speaker issued the following state-

"Shortly after the last adjournment of the last session of Congress, at the solicita that he could do the party more good in tion of a number of people I gave out an authorized interview which I believe the newspapers utilized, touching the Vice-Presidency. There is nothing in addition to that interview that I have to say. It was correct then. It is correct now. Speaker Cannon's interview, which the newspapers utilized, said that if he were nominated for Vice-President and elected he would call the Senate together, appoint a stenographer and telephone operator and retire to his home in Illinois. The Vice-Presidential situation remains practically unchanged, with Fairbanks of Indiana in the lead, Hitt of Illinois second, and Cannon threatening to slaughter anybody who mentions him for the place. There is a man named Springer here from Colorado who says he would like to be Vice-President and declares that he has been a full-fledged Republican ever since the memorable campaign of 1896, and that for that matter he can beat Cortelyou as a Republican by just six months. Some of the Massachusetts friends of James E. Reynolds, the secretary of the Massachusetts State committee, unloaded a batch of buttons nominating him for Vice President on the convention throngs today. Mr. Reynolds does not look at all like his New York namesake. For the las two or three days mysterious Republicans have whispered: "Look out for Representative Victor Howard Metcalf of Cali fornia as the dark horse for the Vice-Presidential nomination." This is the Metcalf who has been spoken of as Secretary Cortelyou's successor as chief of the Depart-to-day, headed by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and ex-Gov. John D. Long, and on the train they took a ballot of the dele gation's preferences for Vice-President, with the following result: Hitt, 30; Canno and Fairbanks one each. Senator Fair banks has been saying this to his friends: "I'm a United States Senator; I'm satis fled with the position; I can't see how I'll be benefited politically by taking the Vice-Presidency." But Mr. Fairbanks won't say that he wil not take second place on the national ticket. His friends are worried over the fear that the delegates will get the impres
